You Give to the Worthiest of Causes when You Give to Your Red Cross

And if you should stop to ask the reason why — the answers are manifold! For this great army, your Red Cross, stretches out a hand of mercy to millions all over the world—soldiers, sailors, marines and civilians. A hand that collects millions of pints of life saving plasma . . . a hand that delivers millions of sustaining food packages to dejected allied war prisoners . . . a hand that delivers heartening emergency messages from loved ones and to loved ones . . . A hand that brings food and clothing to helpless victims of a ruthless war. Yes, this is your Red Cross that does all these things and more! For over a war-torn world its hand of compassion offers hope and comfort to wrecked souls and maimed bodies. Can an organization whose every fibre is directed at aiding and giving solace to the war weary be denied? Look to your heart for the answer.

KEEP YOUR RED CROSS AT HIS SIDE
Give!

Without your generous contributions the Red Cross could not carry on its magnificent and humanitarian work. Your son, husband, brother or sweetheart would be without the plasma needed to save his life . . . without the recreation that keeps up his morale . . . without those important little things that bring a semblance of home into the horrors of battle. Give it a little thought, Mr. Smith—and let your heart write your check.

This is an army training plane which costs $10,000. So far they only have $1,759.45 but are expecting everyone to cooperate.

Freezing Temperatures Make Slippery Going

Freezing temperatures gripped Kingston last night and early this morning, and as a result sidewalks and roads were again covered with a glare of ice. The temperatures ranging in the 40's which have prevailed for several afternoons in the city had caused the huge piles of snow along the streets to gradually waste away.

Temperatures yesterday ranged from a low of 28 degrees to a high of 46 degrees, while this morning at 7 o'clock the official thermometer was recording 24 degrees.

Stiffest Test

The Ives-Quinn bill is expected to encounter its stiffest test in the Senate, where it comes up for a vote Monday. The Senate finance committee reported it out yesterday after rejecting an amendment that would have suspended its operation pending a referendum at the pools next November.

The amendment was offered by Senator Frederic H. Bontecou, Dutchess Republican. Although no vote was announced, it was reported several members of the committee favored it.

Despite the committee action, Bontecou will submit the amendment to the Senate Monday and press for a vote.

Propose Amendments

Meanwhile the Democrats announced four proposed amendments to Governor Dewey's budget proposals. One would increase state aid to education by 20 per cent, or approximately $15,000,000 more than is provided in the budget.

Another would give localities permanently the full proceeds of the utility tax, approximately $18,000,000 annually, which they now get on a temporary basis, and would add the proceeds of the cigarette tax, estimated at $18,000,000 in the next fiscal year.

The other amendments would prevent the freezing of the estimated 1945-46 state surplus of $87,000,000 recommended by Dewey, at this time, and grant all state employes a raise of $500 a year.

Council Is Asked On Information Of State Welfare

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—Creation of a 14-member legislative council to "collect information concerning the government and welfare of the state" was asked in a bill before the Legislature today.

The council, which would consist of seven senators and seven assemblymen, also would examine the operation of laws, study the Legislature's rules of procedure, supervise work on special committees and prepare a legislative program. A $30,000 appropriation was asked for its work up to March 31, 1946.

Senator Walter J. Mahoney, Buffalo Republican who introduced the measure, is a member of the joint legislative committee now investigating legislative procedures, practices and expenditures.

A committee spokesman said Mahoney's proposal had not come from the committee. He indicated, however, the committee, headed by Senator Floyd E. Anderson (R), Binghamton, might suggest such a council upon completion of its study.

Other measures would.

Extend safety requirements for places of public assembly to include any structure, enclosure or floor where 100 or more persons, may assemble for such purposes as amusement or religious services. (Senator William F. Condon, R., Yonkers).

Permit removal of Supreme Court justices, county judges and surrogates by a court to consist of the chief judge of the Court of Appeals and Appellate Division justices, upon recommendation of the governor. (Senator Pliny W. Williamson, R., Westchester, and Assemblyman Harry A. Reoux, R., Warren.)

Prohibit delivery of liquors or wines by retail licensees for off-premises consumption. (Assemblyman Richard J. Sherman, R., Saratoga.)

Prohibit electioneering on registration days within 100 feet of polling places. (Senator Charles O. Burney, Jr., R., Buffalo.)

Abolish the power of the agricultural commissioner to revoke or refuse to renew the license of a milk dealer who ceases operation of his business. (Assemblyman Orlo M. Brees, R., Endicott.)

AFTER-WAR BUSINESS

Even while fighting this big war, our people are not losing sight of the fact that sooner or later it is going to be over and there will be the renewed problem of making a normal living. The more thinking and planning there is done about it now, the less difficulty there will be in readjustment when the shooting stops.

In this direction, the three Kingston Business Men's Association will discuss plans for the formation of a city-wide council or board to work for the industrial benefit of the city at large. Commissioner N. P. Catherwood, State Department of Commerce, will be the speaker at this meeting Thursday evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel, which is open to all civic minded individuals, clubs and organizations.

If a city-wide board, such as chamber of commerce or board of trade is decided upon, the mere naming of the board won't accomplish anything. It is the support that the board gets from the civic and business interests of the community that will bring the results.

Here is an opportunity for Kingston to show other Hudson Valley cities that it intends to become a formidable competitor in the business life of the valley.

It is predicted that there will be such great shortages of normal goods that there will be plenty of business for many years to come.

It is well to be prepared to get a share of this trade before the big rush for business develops.

SEA POWER

Navy Secretary Forrestall has come out with a demand for retention of a strong navy after the war by ourselves and our allies. It is a good time to think about that, in view of our record.

Theodore Roosevelt was the first American leader in modern decades to renew the old American principle, "be strong on the sea." When he came to power, at the beginning of this century, our navy had fallen into decay. He strengthened it considerably. It was not, however, until the present war, that our navy became truly great, surpassing that of the British Navy and making itself an instrument of world power.

"Such power," explains Secretary Forrestall in a report to the President "is not inconsistent with plans for international collaboration, because our contribution to world peace must be threefold. We must participate in a society of nations dedicated to a peaceful, just and decent ordering of world affairs. We must be willing to fight, if necessary, for a world order in which our way of life can endure. We must retain the weapons with which to fight if we must, because the means to conduct war must be in the hands of those who hate war. A powerful navy is therefore indispensable."

In answer to the question why, with what is now the largest navy in the world, we must build more ships this year and next year and the year after that, Mr. Forrestall explains that we must forearm ourselves againts heavy losses likely to be inflicted by Japan both at sea and in the air. Superiority must be maintained.

GENERALS AS PRESIDENTS

Will the next president be a general? By the law of averages this may happen. Out of 31 presidents, nine have been generals: Washington, Jackson, William Henry Harrison, Taylor, Pierce, Grant, Hayes, Garfield and Benjamin Harrison. Two others, Scott and Hancock, were nominated but failed of election.

"Generals in the White House" is the title and the theme of a new book by Dorothy Burne Goebel and Julius Goebel, Jr., which takes up both the army and the presidential careers of the nine. On the whole, the generals have done fairly well, except Grant, under whom one scandal succeeded another without Grant's seeming to know anything about it. On the other hand, most of the nine were essentially civilians, whose military career was but a small part of their lives. Only Taylor was a professional soldier, and in his day governmental problems were far simpler than today.

Seems as if we ought to have a few witch doctors, too, in that Pacific fight, along with our Devildogs.

'These Days'

HIGH FINANCE

I wish someone who understands frenzied finance would explain to me how Henry Kaiser, who was never before a shipbuilder, never before a steel manufacturer, never before had plant and equipment for manufacturing magnesium or ferrosilicon suddenly blossoms forth as an expert in all those fields and is set up by the government of the United States to operate in them without putting up what would seem to be adequate capital of his own.

Let me cite the figures as they appear in the record:

The R.F.C. has loaned Kaiser Company, Inc., a corporation with only a reported $100,000 capital issue, a total of $111,805,000. Approximately $100,000,000 of this amount was used for erecting a steel mill at Fontana, California; $1,000,000 was used for ore deposits, and the balance for working capital. The loan is stated to have been made at the request of the War Production Board and is secured by a mortgage on the property and the assignment of certain fees to accrue from the Maritime Commission for shipbuilding in three shipyards.

Up to January 30, $7,500,000 has been paid in from ship fees, but $2,500,000 was allocated for additional improvements, leaving a net payment of $5,000,000. In addition to the plant, the company has a working capital of approximately $15,000,000 from the R.F.C. loan. The company is reported to be operating about even, without allowing anything for interest or depreciation—which means that by any proper bookkeeping must be operating at a loss.

It would seem to me from these figures that this curious business is a total government enterprise in competition with private enterprise, that the Henry Kaiser, Inc.'s investment of $100,000 in a $111,805,000 enterprise is nominal, and that consequently the losses, if any, must be taken by the American taxpayer.

But what puzzles me is that if the United States needed a steel plant at Montana, California, and had to invest this huge sum in such a plant, why did it not go to an experienced steel producer? There are about 100 steel manufacturing companies in the United States with a huge personnel trained, skilled and habituated in the production of steel and its products. Until Henry Kaiser obtained these enormous loans he had been a front man for a group of construction contractors and thence moved into shipbuilding. Why were these particular loans made to him of all people?

And here is another item: The R.F.C. loaned Kaiser Cargo, Inc., $1,000,000 to purchase an airplane plant at Bristol, Pennsylvania. I understand that this plant has not done much and that the balance due on this loan as of January 30, is $736,758.

And here is another item: The R.F.C. loaned Permanente Metals Corporation, another Kaiser company, $28,475,000 to build a magnesium plant, a ferro-silicon plant, and a dolomite calcining plant in California. The loan is secured by a mortgage on the property and the assignment of certain shipbuilding fees from three shipyards. The balance owed as of January 30 is $24,100,000. The plant is said to have lost considerable money for which the ship fees have been used toward payment. The ship fees are paid to the Kaiser Company by the government of the United States.

So Henry Kaiser's enterprises have received from the government for these three items a total of $143,780,000 in the form of loans for industrial activities in fields in which he had no prior experience and practically no investment, that none of these enterprises has been financially successful; that they have been aided by ship fees paid to Kaiser enterprises by the government and that in the end, the R.F.C. must be left holding the bag. How come?

RHEUMATIC FEVER

When a patient is struck down with rheumatic fever, the physician's main thought is safeguarding the heart as rheumatic fever damages the heart in a great proportion of cases. Even with great care, and appropriate medical treatment, the number of cases of permanently damaged hearts is large. In the treatment of rheumatic fever, as with other forms of rheumatism, much dependence is placed on the salicylates, particularly sodium salicylate.

That sodium salicylate is the best treatment now known for rheumatic fever is true but that the size of the dose and the method of giving it are most important is pointed out by Lt. Comm. Alvin F. Coburn (M.C.), United States Navy Reserve.

C. W. Fullerton, M.D., in the Montreal Medical and Surgical Society Bulletin, gives an abstract of Dr. Coburn's article.

As the degree or severity of rheumatic fever (or other inflammation) is estimated by the rate at which the blood cells fall to the bottom of a jar containing some of the blood of the patient, treatment that will reduce the rate at which the blood cells settle to the bottom (thus forming a sediment) to a normal rate should naturally be the proper treatment.

"If one can modify or slow down this sedimentation rate so that it ceases to rise after 72 hours of treatment and then falls progressively, reaching the normal rate within 14 days, there is good reason to believe that further damage to the heart will be stopped."

Dr. Coburn's method is then outlined, the main point being that the sodium salicylate is given the first day in a certain dosage in a salt solution injected into the veins drop by drop within a certain number of hours, and if necessary in a larger dose the second day, and then following a schedule lasting 30 days in all.

It would appear that the organisms causing rheumatic fever are powerful, making it necessary to use large doses of sodium salicylate within a short time, and in the manner mentioned, which is much quicker than if the sodium salicylate were taken by mouth.

In a series of 38 rheumatic fever patients treated with at least 10 grains of sodium salicylate daily, none developed rheumatic fever over a period of two years.

Washington in Wartime

By JACK STINETT

Washington—Your Capital in Wartime:

The rumor goes round and round that sometime soon there will be a new department or departments in the cabinet. A number have been suggested. It will take congressional action, but the source probably will be the Budget Bureau.

Blueprints have already been drawn there for a Department of Transportation (as was reported in this column months ago) and the BB could now deliver an outline for a Department of Public Welfare. Nucleus of the new department would be the Federal Security Administration, the Women's and Children's Bureaus of the Labor Department, and the Public Health Service.

Sooner or later, there must be a reorganization of the executive branches of government. For more than a decade they have been spreading all over the place and overlapping each other so frequently that it often is impossible to tell where the authority of one leaves off and the other begins.

Over in Treasury, the War Bond boys are rubbing their hands in a little justifiable glee. The cashing in of war bonds is taking a nose dive. Immediately after the Treasury made a deal with banks throughout the country to pay cash for bonds practically across the counter the redemption of bonds soared. While some experts were saying, "Yah-yah, I told you so!" war finance officials kept their heads. Their theory was that if bondholders could be made to realize that bonds are as good as cash; they would hold them.

The result has been just what the War Bond boys expected. A March turn-in flurry is anticipated as holders pick up cash to pay income taxes. But after that, it is expected bond cash-ins will sag again.

My favorite story of the week has to do with a young lady who works in WPB.

As in all other government buildings, the engineers were trying mightily to comply with President Roosevelt's coal and oil conservation order to keep the temperature to 68 degrees.

There had been so many complaints, the engineers could no longer ignore them. The place was freezing, the workers said. The engineers didn't believe it.

Finally they sent one of the staff up to install a recording thermometer—just to prove that the temperature was all that it should be. The employes eyed him suspiciously, but nobody said anything until the little secretary arose from her desk and said loudly, "Never mind all that scientific stuff; just come over here and feel my feet."

Leaves From Notebook Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE

In Germany (AP)—Allied troops pushing through Germany are finding interesting propaganda signs in English left by vanished Nazi householders pleading for sympathy.

"Please treat this home as you would your own," says one sign.

Another says, "We have done you no harm—do not harm our little home."

These latest "Goebbels gobbles"—because there is no doubt the signs are inspired by the German government—stir anger rather than sympathy among the troops, who have seen too much German destruction in other countries to worry about any damage the enemy suffers in his own land.

"It must be a terrible sense of guilt that makes the Germans put up these signs," said the 83rd Infantry Division's frontline newspaper, The Spearhead, in an editorial. "Why should they think the softy soldiers of a decadent democracy would destroy their little homes?

"You don't suppose they think we'd do such a thing without provocation, do you? Or do you suppose they feel guilty about destroying half of Europe—and think we intend to destroy all of Germany?

"They are guilty all right. Guilty as hell. And they know it. They are scared stiff. The war is right in their front yard. The shoe pinches. It is on the other foot. And they know that too.

"Ah, they are a cagey lot, these Germans. They are smart and they are going to play us for all they are worth. It's damn near the end of the line in more ways than one for most of them. They know it only too well.

"So when it comes to signs, we've got one of our own. It's a good one and we will plaster it on every house that we see:

"'Under new management—democracy at work.'"

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

One of the most spectacular fires in Kingston was that of Saturday evening, June 4, 1927, which damaged the city hall on Broadway to such an extent that it was rebuilt and remodeled into the present fine structure.

At the time of the fire, Police Sergeant Charles Phinney (now Chief Phinney) was alone in police headquarters on the ground floor of the building, answering the calls coming in over the police signal system from the patrolmen on street duty.

Suddenly a man stuck his head through the open window and said: "The city hall is on fire."

Phinney immediately got busy and notified Chief of Police J. Allan Wood and began calling in all of the policemen off duty to report at once to the city hall.

In the meantime the fire bells sounded the call to the fire departments, and when Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy reached the fire he promptly turned in a second and then a third alarm, calling out all of the fire fighting equipment in the city.

During the course of fighting the fire the fire chief was cut just above the ear, while a number of firemen were injured.

The most seriously injured was Captain Edward Albrecht, who suffered a broken leg, fractured ribs and a back injury, and was removed to the Kingston Hospital.

Among the firemen injured were Eugene Krum, Joseph Emmick, W. J. Ferguson, Harry Taylor, Harold Sanford, A. H. Rogers and William McElrath. They received mostly burns and cut fingers.

The fire broke out in a small room on the third floor which had been used as a carpenter shop by employes of the Board of Public Works, and it swept rapidly throughout the entire upper floor, and before the fire was brought under control it had gutted the entire interior of the building.

The old fire alarm bell hung in the tower, and was hung from heavy wooden uprights. As they burned through the fire bell tolled its own death knell as it plunged down through the burning building.

When the city hall was restored the old bell was not rehung in the tower.

On the third floor was also located the Boy Scout radio station which was wiped out by the fire, and was never rebuilt. This was the first radio broadcasting station in the city, and was long noted for the excellence of its programs, featuring all local talent.

At the time of the fire Fire Chief Murphy estimated the fire loss as between $150,000 to $200,000.

While the city hall was being rebuilt the offices were housed in various city-owned buildings.

Americans are Getting by Way of House of Commons Some Details of the Secret Yalta Conference

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 28—The official communique of the Yalta conference apparently did not tell all of the story. The American people are now getting by way of the House of Commons some details of the secret meeting participated in by the President of the United States.

The official declaration given out after the Yalta conference, moreover, seems to have been contradicted now by Mr. Churchill's speech. The question of Polish boundaries was dealt with in the following paragraph of the original communique:

"The three heads of government consider that the eastern frontier of Poland should follow the Curzon Line with digressions from it in some regions of 5 to 8 kilometers in favor of Poland. They recognized that Poland must receive substantial accessions of territory in the north and west. They feel that the opinion of the new Polish provisional government of national unity should be sought in due course on the extent of these accessions and that the final delimination of the western frontier of Poland should thereafter await the peace conference."

This gave the impression that only one boundary had been decided upon—the eastern. Now it turns out that the boundaries other than the eastern line have already been delimited and that the so-called peace conference decision may be superfluous. The President of the United States, according to Mr. Churchill, has already agreed to carve up German territory and hand over certain sections to the future Poland and take other sections from Poland and give them to Russia.

This is the kind of thing the American people were told would not happen again—that there would be a reign of law and international order and that the wishes of the people in Allied countries would be consulted. The Atlantic Charter pledged Russia and Britain and the United States not to make territorial changes without consulting "the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned." No people were consulted before Yalta.

Mr. Churchill says that he and Mr. Rooosevelt and Mr. Stalin had agreed at Yalta not only to the Curzon Line boundary on the east of Poland but also to give Poland the city of Danzig and the greater part of East Prussia as well as the industrial province of upper Silesia and such other territory east of the Oder river as the peace conference might care to take away from Germany.

It would be interesting to know under what authority the President made the agreement and whether he intends to submit these new territorial rearrangements to the United States Senate for ratification.

Mr. Churchill has submitted the details to the British parliament and has asked for a vote of ratification. Will the President do likewise for the benefit of the Senate so that, if ratified, the signature of the United States of America may actually mean what it says, namely signature as authorized by the Constitution? While a President may sign an agreement, it does not bear the full authority of the United States unless a two-thirds vote of the Senate concurs in that agreement by a formal act of ratification.

The Senate has a right to know what commitments were made at the Yalta conference and if there were any signed agreements. It is entitled to know also whether the Polish boundaries as agreed upon by the Big Three now are to be guaranteed by force and the extent to which America will be called upon to guarantee the alleged peace that is expected to flow from the partitions of territory against the wishes of the people who inhabit that territory.

The Poles have not asked to be given large slices of German territory but to keep their own territory. The Big Three apparently are not concerned by the possibility of long feuds that may arise out of grievances between Poland and a future Germany over the permanent occupation of territory inhabited by many millions of Germans. The sources of friction will be numerous and the new Polish government will have to look toward a Russian army or an international army to keep peace by the sword. Boundary disputes are important only as they may sow the seeds of future wars.

The story told by the prime minister to the House of Commons is the same old story of power politics and international log-rolling and the victim is an ally—helpless Poland.

ERNIE PYLE'S COLUMN

Ernie Pyle is with the Navy in the Pacific. This is an article written on his way.

In the Marianas Islands—(Delayed)—When you see a headline saying "Superforts Blast Japan Again," I hope you don't get the idea that Japan is being blown sky high and that she'll be bombed out of the war within another week or two.

Because that isn't the case. We are just barely starting on a program of bombing that will be long and tough. Even with heavy and constant bombings it would take years to reduce Japan by bombing alone. And our bombings are not yet heavy.

Too, we have lots of things to contend with. Distance is the main thing, and Jap fighters and ack-ack and foul weather are other things. The weather over Japan is their best defense. As one pilot jokingly suggested, "The Nips should broadcast us the weather every night, and save both themselves and us lots of trouble."

Almost the first thing the B-29 boys asked me was, "Do the people at home think the B-29's are going to win the war?"

I told them the papers played up the raids, and that many wishful thinking people felt the bombings might turn the trick. And the boys said:

"That's what we were afraid of. Naturally we want what credit we deserve, but our raids certainly aren't going to win the war."

The B-29 raids are important, just as every island taken and every ship sunk is important. But in their present strength it would be putting them clear out of proportion if you think they are a dominant factor in our Pacific war.

I say this not to belittle the B-29 boys, because they are wonderful. I say it because they themselves want it understood by the folks at home.

Their lot is a tough one. The worst part is that they're over water every inch of the way to Japan, every inch of the way back. And brother, it's a lot of water. The average time for one of their missions is more than 14 hours.

The flak and fighters over Japan are bad enough, but that tense period is fairly short. They are over the Empire only from 20 minutes to an hour, depending on their target. Jap fighters follow them only about 15 minutes off the coast.

What gives the boys the woolies is "sweating out" those six or seven hours of ocean beneath them on the way back. To make it worse, it's usually at night.

Some of them are bound to be shot up, and just staggering along. There's always the danger of running out of gas, from many forms of overconsumption. If you've got one engine gone, others are liable to quit.

If anything happens, you go into the ocean. That is known as "ditching." I suppose around a B-29 base you hear the word "ditching" almost more than any other word.

"Ditching" out here isn't like "ditching" in the English Channel where your chances of being picked up are awfully good. "Ditching" out here is usually fatal.

We have set up a search and rescue system for these "ditched" fliers but still the ocean is awfully big, and it's mighty hard to find a couple of little rubber boats. The fact that we do rescue about a fifth of our "ditched" fliers is amazing to me.

Yes, that long drag back home after the bombing is a definite mental hazard, and is what eventually makes the boys sit and stare.

Maybe you've heard of the "buddy system" in the Infantry. They use it in the B-29's, too. For instance, if a plane is in distress on the way back and has to fall behind, somebody drops back with him to keep him company.

They've known planes to come clear home accompanied by a "buddy," and you could go so far as to say some might not have made it were it not for the extra courage given them by having company.

But the big point of the "buddy system" is that if a plane does have to ditch, the "buddy" can fix his exact position and get surface rescuers on the way.

The other morning after a mission, my friend Major Gerald Robertson was lying in his cot resting and reminiscing, and he said:

"You feel so damn helpless when the others get in trouble. The air will be full of radio calls from those guys saying they've only got two engines or they're running short on gas.

"I've been lucky and there I'll be sitting with four engines and a thousand gallons extra of gas. I could spare any of them one engine and 500 gallons of gas if I could just get it to them. It makes you feel so damn helpless."

STUDENT RUSH AVOIDED

University of Shanghai officials used six policemen to safeguard the Chinese institution from students rushing to be first to enroll on its opening day. The call for help came after swarms of students appeared for registration. Within six hours more than 1,400 were on hand to register. While thousands sought admission, only 468 are actually allowed to pursue their courses. Only 10 per cent passed the entrance examinations, President Henry Lin said.

Airstrip 'Haunted'

Chinese soldiers returning to Chungking from the fighting in Burma brought back the tale of Bhamo's "haunted" airstrip. The Japanese picked the flattest spot they could find near the city on the Irrawaddy river. It was a burial ground. They smoothed it off for a runway. A flight of Zeros landed—but four crashed. Then Allied bombers came over and smashed eight more. The Japs, the Chinese soldiers report, then stopped using the "haunted" field.

Be Glad

Is it raining, little flower? Be glad of rain;
Too much sun would wither thee, 'twill shine again.
The sky is very black, 'tis true, but just behind it shines the Blue.
Are thou weary, tender heart? Be glad of pain;
In sorrow the sweetest things will grow as flowers in the rain.
God watches and thou wilt have sun
When clouds their perfect work have done.

A very fat man standing behind an irritable elderly woman in the line waiting to get into a local movie show the other evening.

Woman (snapping)—Can't you stop your pushing?

Fat Man—Excuse me, madam. I did not push. I only sighed.

Caller—Is the boss in?

New Office Girl—Are you a salesman, bill collector or a friend of his?

Caller—All three.

New Office Girl—He's in a business conference. He's out of town. Step in and see him.

Thirteen is an unlucky number, if you only have dinner for twelve.

An Appeal to Be Heeded

"Give to the Red Cross,"
Is the word we hear today;
Actually we don't give "to it,"
But "thru it," I would say.

—Mrs. Lexie Allen

The young woman carefully wrote out her telegram and handed it across the counter. The clerk, giving the yellow sheet a professional glance, said:

Clerk—Seventy-five cents.

Girl—Gracious! Isn't that rather expensive for only one word?

Clerk—That's the regular rate, Miss. But, of course, you can send nine more words without it costing you any more.

Girl—No, I've said "yes" once. Ten of them would look like I was too anxious.

Buying War Bonds will help win the war and bring our loved ones home.

A parent had occasion to punish his six-year-old son. That night he overheard the youngster saying his prayers.

"Please, Lord, make me a good boy," pleaded the child. "I asked You yesterday, but I guess You overlooked me."

Foreman—Say, that new man we put on the job is a regular steam-engine.

Boss—Good worker, eh?

Foreman—No, he's a good whistler.

Shorts: Little wisdom makes big fools. . . . It seems wars also make a lot of crooks. . . . The only way to have a friend is to be one. . . . In kissing two heads are better than one. . . . Reliability and stability are more essential to success than brilliancy. . . . The more you think of some people the less you think of them.

She—Why, David, what is worrying you?

He—I was just wondering if Dad would see to the milkin' while we are on our honeymoon, suppesin' you said yes, if I asked you.

Army Hospitals Need More Nurses; Nurses Overseas Need Relief and Rest

Emphasizing again the urgent need for graduate registered nurses in the Army Nurse Corps, the local chapter of the American Red Cross, 237 Fair street, is asking all nurses in this district who are eligible to consider the call to service. Facts directly from the Army Nurse Corps shows that last December 33,000 casualties were returned to this country in that one month alone and these did not include casualties resulting from the German offensive. General military hospitals in this country are reaching capacity loads.

But not only the general hospitals in the States are being taxed for nursing care but recent reports throughout the last two months consistently say that medical units are being sent to the combat zones without any nurse personnel. Nurses overseas not only must have help to save lives, but those who have served two and three years abroad are entitled to relief and rotation home. One of Kingston's own nurses, Lt. Rose Straley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Straley, Sr., 70 Stephan street, who has been through some of the most severe combats in the African and Italian campaigns has been overseas two years.

Nurse Writes from Europe

Another nurse, Lt. Marie Oscar, 71 Montgomery street, Saugerties, has been overseas more than a year in Ireland, England and more recently with the front line troops at Rennes and Brest. Speaking of the Army Nurse Corps she writes, "It is a rare and edifying privilege to serve our country—I consider myself most fortunate that my life was shaped to be of service to those who need me."

Describing her landing and subsequent experiences on the continent she writes:

"We left for France the early part of August and landed on the original beach used by our troops on June 6 in Normandy. It certainly was an experience in an L.S.T. seeing the havoc of battle yet apparent on the small spot of sand we first set foot on. What a night we had there, lying out in the pouring rain, no blankets or shelter, for our tents were among our baggage which was detached from us when we were unable to land at the first beach because the tide was out and the sand bars became real obstacles.

War First Hand

"I shall never forget the ride inland. Up to then the war was nearly as distant to us as it has been for all of you there at home. In a huge convoy we zoomed along, mixed in with jeeps, ambulances, tanks, infantry, troops. That night we had our first taste of the Luftwaffe—the drone of planes overhead—scream of the alarm siren—and the sky lighted up with ack-ack. The roads were gutted and pitted with shell hits, the mud splashed in all directions. The roadsides were strewn with abandoned enemy war equipment—helmets of our own boys, shoes, dead cows, occasionally bodies and many lonesome, poorly marked graves.

"We rode in an open 2½ ton truck, our own three pound steel helments banging up and down with every bump. Our faces dirty and our precious new combat uniforms streaked with the flying soil of France. Not to mention our empty stomachs for we were on military "K" rations for more than 10 days.

"Our first stop was indeed a help, but there was much to see so we did not mind our weariness or hunger at this point. We went through many of the places you have read about, St. Lo and later St. Malo. Some were left at Rennes to help there at a large hospital and others of us were sent out in "shock" teams to Brest. Here the fighting was still heated and I have spent my share of the attacked time in foxholes.

Gets Some Rest

"At this time Brest fell and we were granted a two week rest period. We pitched our tents in a cow pasture with the cows and dug in, tried out our French on the natives, went on a few sightseeing trips to Mt. St. Michel and I flew to Paris with a friend in the air corps.

"Tiredness wore off in short order and before the two weeks were up we were all itching to go. So we went—north and inland. From our present location we can easily get to Paris and LeHavre and even Belgium. Fortunately we have a building now for our hospital. I find myself getting more acclimatized to working without the sound of the tent flapping in the wind. We are hard at it again and plan to move shortly.

"God grant the war may come to an end before too much longer."

Children's Program Will Start Saturday

The first in a series of 13 broadcasts for children will be heard over Station WKNY Saturday afternoon from 5:45 to 6 o'clock. Sponsored by the Junior League of Kingston the series will be presented on consecutive Saturday afternoons when all children will be able to hear the program.

Entitled "Books Bring Adventure," the program is a dramatized adaptation of outstanding children's books and bring the stories of children of other lands as well as America. The Junior Leagues in the United States and Canada have had seven years of experience in this field using the medium of local radio stations to bring worthwhile entertainment to children. The Junior League feels that a program of this type not only provides worthwhile radio entertainment but also stimulates reading.

Assisting the Junior Leagues in selecting the books were Mrs. Frances Clarke Sayers, Miss Mary Gould Davis and Miss Ruth Giles of the New York Public Library; Miss Christine Gilbert, Children's Librarian of Teacher's College, Columbia University; Vernon Ives, chairman, Children's Division of the Council of Books in War Time and Children's Editor of Holiday House; Miss Mae O'Brien, formerly of Horace Mann School; and Mrs. Ruth A. Tooze of the Book Box, Evanston, Ill.

The program for Saturday is "Mischief in Fez" an adaptation of the book by Eleanor Hoffman, published by Holiday House, Inc. The plot is laid in Morocco and is the story of the good and evil djinns and small Mousa. Counties represented in some of the other stories include Canada, India, Russia, China, Hungary, Iceland, England, Holland, Poland, as well as stories from South America and the United States.

Mrs. C. F. Pierce Is Hostess For Lowell Club Meeting

The Lowell Club met at the home of Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, 27 Janet street, Tuesday afternoon. After the usual business the paper of the day, "Interpretation of Christian Symbols" was given by Mrs. Clyde Wonderly.

She said, "The use of symbolism is all but universal. Without its assistance, the affairs of our daily life might come to a state of confusion." Explaining her topic, Mrs. Wonderly continued saying that a symbol is a story, a simple sign that may be read at a glance. As example, the red light or flag are recognized at once as signs of danger. The well known crossed boards indicate the railroad crossing. in fact, the railroads are run by symbols, Mrs. Wonderly noted.

The church has its own symbolism. At Rome, Naples and other Italian cities are between six and seven hundred miles of winding underground passages cut out of rock and called catacombs. These contain more than six million niches in which are the ashes of the dead. In the case of Christians it was the custom to place a symbolic inscription on each slab. Some of the inscriptions date back as far as 72 A. D. Mrs. Wonderly gave the meaning of many symbols such as birds, flowers and colors.

An excellent sketch, "Examples of Parables of Jesus," was given by Mrs. James Murphy. She spoke of Jesus' revealing the joy of God over one repentant sinner and His willingness to forgive in the parables of the Lost Coin, Prodigal Son, Lost Sheep, Two Forgiven Debtors, and the Good Samaritan. "Jesus taught that we should judge ourselves instead of pretending to judge others with the parable of the Mote and the Beam in the Eye."

Mrs. J. D. Groves of West Hurley will be the hostess on March 13.

Tuberculosis is reported to be spreading among natives in South Africa.

Lenten Speaker

DR. R. I. LINDQUIST

"The Courage of Christ" will be the subject of the sermon by the Rev. Dr. Raymond Irving Lindquist, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Orange, N. J., at the third Union Lenten Service of the uptown churches Thursday, at 7:30 p. m., in St. James Methodist Church. Ministers and people, young and old, who heard him last year at the Lenten service in the First Presbyterian Church, were impressed and inspired.

Dr. Lindquist's Church in Orange is one of the largest in the denomination, having a membership of more than 1,800. The present edifice, which was completed in 1928 following the destruction of the old stone church in 1927, stands in what is known as "the Old Burying Ground." It is built of brick in colonial type architecture, and has a seating capacity of more than 1,200. Adjoining the structure is a large parish house, having several assembly rooms, and individual class rooms to accommodate 500 pupils at one time. In addition, there is a building attached called "The House of Prayer" which has a seating capacity of 250, and is equipped with an Estey pipe organ valued at $7,000. The entire plant cost more than half a million dollars.

Under the leadership of Dr. Lindquist during the past 11 years, the Church has made notable progress in numbers, attendance, influence and power; and he is considered to be one of the most brilliant evangelical preachers of the denomination. After graduation from college, he entered law school, but before completing the law course he felt impelled to enter the Christian ministry and after three years at Princeton Theological Seminary he was graduated with the highest honors and was awarded a Fellowship to Edinburgh University. Following the death of the beloved and honored pastor of the First Church of Orange, the Rev. Dr. Harmon H. McQuilkin, young Mr. Lindquist was asked to supply the pulpit and was soon called to become the pastor of the historic Church, founded in 1719. He vacated the Fellowship and accepted the call.

At the service on Thursday night, the Rev. W. Wesley Williams will preside and the Rev. William J. McVey is to participate. The musical program arranged by C. Franklin Pierce, the Minister of Music, will consist of the following numbers: Prelude—"O Sacred Head" by Bach; Anthem—"By Babylon's Wave" by Gounod; postlude—"Choral" by Karg-Elert. An invitation is extended to the public.

Reports Are Given at Meeting Of Kingston Hospital Auxiliary

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary was held at the Nurses' Home Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. R. Frederic Chidsey, president, presiding. During the business meeting several reports were made. Mrs. Frederick Snyder gave a report of the purchasing committee's work on the remodeling of the diet kitchen. The work on the floors has been temporarily delayed due to shortage of materials, but will be continued as soon as those materials are available. Resolutions were passed on the death of Mrs. George DuBois Smith, and a copy will be sent to the family.

Mrs. Leonard Flicker and Mrs. Mortimer Downer reported the progress of the financial drive and announced that contributions are still being sent in. Mrs. Chidsey thanked all for the contributions and called attention to the publicity that had been given by The Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston Daily Leader, Ulster County News, and radio station WKNY.

Hostesses for yesterday were Mrs. Roy Sutliff, Mrs. Eugene W. Pembleton and Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman.

Dr. Berwyn F. Mattison, district state health officer, was introduced as the guest speaker by Mrs. Parker K. Brinnier in the absence of Mrs. Frederic Holcomb. Dr. Mattison outlined the cancer problem. With 3,400 years of experience in the treatment of tumors and advances in surgery, there are still limitations in the ethical-medical treatment of cancer he explained. Three effective treatments he listed as surgery, deep X-ray therapy and radium as a therapeutic agent.

The New York State Department of Health program for cancer is six years old. The department has organized state approved tumor clinics for diagnosing and treating cancer. The state has also provided professional and lay education. All tumors and malignant growths are reported to the State Department of Health for statistical reference used in research.

Dr. Mattison concluded his discussion by showing a movie demonstrating the value of what he had said.

The March meeting on Tuesday, March 27, will be devoted to a Red Cross program. Hostesses will be Mrs. Alec Mollott, Mrs. John Herlihy and Mrs. Robert Groves.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

IMPORTANT ADVICE ABOUT GIVING INVITATIONS

Don't expect your friends to be mind readers, because if you do, it is likely that they will unknowingly let you down; which is what happened to the writer of this letter. "We invited friends to Sunday dinner at midday. We expected them to remain with us the rest of the day, but at about 4 o'clock they said they had to leave; each having made another engagement. Doesn't an invitation to dinner, particularly on a Sunday, imply for the rest of the day?"

For all I know it may in friendly communities. But in formal communities, an hour after leaving the dinner table is as long as anyones is expected to stay, unless especially invited to spend the afternoon.

Correct Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: Please answer the following two questions: (1) Which should it be—a man take a woman's arm or she take his? (2) When shaking hands with a glove on, is it proper to say "Excuse my glove?"

Answer (1) A man should offer a woman his arm. (2) When a man has on a street glove and he can't pull it off, he says, "Excuse my glove." If wearing an indoor glove at a wedding or a ball, for example, he keeps it on and says nothing. A woman never says it. In fact, on very formal occasions she puts on gloves to shake hands.

Writing Names on Family Tree

Dear Mrs. Post: In a book which is to be kept as a record for a child, shouldn't the family tree be filled in with the name of the child's step great-grandmother who has for two generations long been the center of the family? The great-grandfather's first wife died when her children were too little to remember her. The family want his present wife's name but are told it is not proper in a family tree. One of our children also is named for her—if this makes a difference.

Answer: It is true that great-grandfather's first wife must be shown in the family tree to be the mother of the children, but it is entirely proper—in fact, necessary — that great-grandfather's second wife's name be included with his own. Moreover, the fact that one of the children has been named for her, certainly shows a tie of love as plainly as that of blood.

Applauding the American Flag

Dear Mrs. Post: Should one applaud when the American Flag is shown on the screen in the movies?

Answer: It is usually a natural impulse to do so, but it is not looked upon as lack of patriotism if one doesn't.

"I have been too busy to write" may be the truth, but it is not a tactful opening for a friendly letter. Mrs. Post explains how to avoid such bad beginnings in her booklet, No. 502, "The Art of Letter Writing," obtainable by sending 10 cents (coin preferred) and a three-cent stamp to her in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Ladies Have Steam Bath Night at 'Y'

Wednesday Set Aside for Their Convenience

Wednesday night has been set aside at the Y.M.C.A. as Ladies' Night in the new health department when the women are given the privilege of using the new steam baths which have been recently installed in the building.

Secretary Burt Tandy said today that the women were displaying great interest in this additional facility to the equipment of the association, and for that reason it had been decided to set aside each Wednesday evening for the women.

Drive for Finances Will Start in April

Tuesday evening the executive committee of the Y.M.C.A. met at the association and discussed plans for the annual financial campaign which will be staged the latter part of April.

The board of directors at a recent meeting stressed the need of completing renovations to the building and equipment to take care of servicemen as they return home.

San Francisco, Feb. 28 (AP)—Photos of close finishes at race tracks have become standard practice, but it was a new wrinkle at a race between boat crews at the Alameda U. S. Maritime Service Officers School. Rival crews and supporters screamed "we won" and demanded immediate payment of wagers.

But they had to wait for a finish line photo. The result—a perfect tie. Unlike nose and nose horse race finishes, where bettors collect on the deadlocked leaders, the two crews had to row the race over.

Coward bought Doggone last winter in New Orleans from Jack Howard for $15,000. He was offered $30,000 for her at Chicago last summer by Trainer Ben Jones.

Berlin Railroads Still Under Fire

Allied Airmen Begin Third Week of Assaults

London, Feb. 28 (AP)—The non-stop Allied air offensive against Germany's railway system entered its third week today with another two-way bombardment in the making after Berlin was hammered with blockbusters for the eighth consecutive night.

Long before noon, German radio stations had begun flashing alarms for the western and southern sections of the country. Fighterbombers buzzed up and down over the western front.

During the night, R.A.F. Mosquitos made two separate raids on Berlin. Port installations at Bremen, where the Nazis are said to be rushing work on new type submarines, also were bombed last night.

More than 1,000 tons of bombs dropped by U. S. 15th Air Force heavy bombers in the Augsburg railway yards, 30 miles northwest of Munich, in yesterday's raid caused widespread damage.

The main strength of yesterday's 900-bomber R.A.F. attack was directed against the communications center of Mainz, and against a gasoline plant near Gelsenkirchen in the Ruhr. Three R.A.F. aircraft were lost from the day and night operations.

Thirteen American bombers and seven fighters were missing from yesterday's 1,800-plane attack on Leipzig and Halle. The Swiss radio said nine "American or unidentified" planes were shot down or made forced landings in Switzerland.

Twenty-four Allied aircraft were missing from yesterday's 15th Air Force sorties into southern Germany, a British heavy bomber attack last night on railway yards in the Verona area of northern Italy, and other attacks in northern Italy and Austria, Allied headquarters in Italy announced.

Yanks Close In on Cologne

the blackout was imposed upon Ninth Army movements.

"Further advances were being made, however," A.P. correspondent Roger D. Greene wirelessed from Montgomery's headquarters.

In six days, the Ninth Army has counted 8,203 Germans who have streamed into prison cages, and many hundreds still are to be tallied.

British troops of the Canadian Army in the north captured long and bitterly defended Calcar without firing a shot. They took Hennepel, south of Grieth on the Rhine, giving the Allies three more miles of footing on the west bank of the wide river. Hanselaer, immediately east of Calcar, fell. German defenses on the Maas weakened. At several points, white flags appeared on houses.

Gen. Henry Crerar's Canadian Army had cleared 44 meandering miles of the western bank of the Rhine from north of Nijmegen to Honnepel.

South of Calcar, the Canadians with tanks and flame throwers battered 500 yards into defenses hidden in the dank Hochwald-Xanten fir forest within cannon shot of the Ruhr.

Carey Named on Vets' Agricultural Loan Committee

Eugene B. Carey, former mayor of Kingston and for many years prominently connected with work for the veterans of World War I, on Tuesday received notice that he had been appointed a member of the Veterans' Agricultural Loan Committee (certifying committee) for Ulster county.

The appointment, which was dated February 19 and run to December 31, 1947, was made through R. Tyler Space, state director of the Federal Farm Security Administration, acting under authority of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Mr. Carey's appointment completes the committee for Ulster county, the other members being Benjamin VanWagenen of Lomontville, Vernon Barnhart of Kripplebush and Frank Aldrich of Lake Katrine, with Frank A. Norman, county supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, with office in the Municipal Building, as executive secretary of the committee.

The committee is charged with the duty of considering applications and certifying the same when found advisable, for loan guarantees under Title III, of Public Law 346, known as the G. I. Bill of Rights law, passed by Congress and which became a law June 22, 1944. The committee of which Mr. Carey is a member is concerned with applications for loans for farm property and equipment, on which the government can guarantee half the purchase price, not to exceed $2,000.

Mr. Carey will represent the interests of the veterans, for which he is well equipped. He served for two terms as commander of Kingston Post, 150, American Legion and for ten years as its adjutant. He also captained the Legion's Fife, Drum & Bugle Corps for three years. For many years he has served without pay as relief commissioner in Ulster county for the State Veterans Relief Bureau, which aids sick and unemployed veterans whose sickness is the result of war service.

Light Snow Tonight; Weatherman's Offering

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—Temperature maximums slightly above freezing today with light snow tonight was the weatherman's offering for New York state today.

Clearing weather and a slow rise in mercury were expected tomorrow. Temperatures last night were generally in the 20's.

Reporting "absolutely no danger" of flood at this time, the Albany Weather Bureau said high winds yesterday evaporated most of the rain and snow of the preceding night and reduced snow cover.

The Hudson and Mohawk rivers rose slightly yesterday. The Chenango and Susquehanna rivers at Binghamton reached 7.62 and 8.05 feet respectively. Flood level is 16 feet for both streams.

Marines Protest Editorial, Shore Patrol Is Called

San Francisco, Feb. 28 (AP)—A riot call last night sent police and navy shore patrol squads to the San Francisco Examiner, where a group of 60 to 75 U. S. Marines were protesting an editorial which said the Marine Corps is paying "perhaps too heavily" in casualties for Iwo Jima.

One witness said the group demanded a retraction or right to answer the Examiner's proposal that Gen. Douglas MacArthur be put "in supreme command in the Pacific war" because "he saves the lives of his own men."

Marine, navy and police officials reported there was no violence and no arrests. William Wren, managing editor of the William Randolph Hearst newspaper, termed the riot call as "utterly unnecessary."

Romania Testing Ground

Bari, Italy, Feb. 28 (AP)—A political crisis brewing in Romania suggested today the possibility that that Balkan country may become the first testing ground for the Yalta conference pledge of tri-partite action to preserve internal peace in liberated lands. Demonstrations against the government of Premier Radescu already have resulted in bloodshed, and parts of the country are virtually under military law. The situation may conceivably reach a point where outside intervention is necessary to maintain order.

New Syracuse Chief

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—Removal of Police Chief William E. Rapp "for the good of the service," was announced today by Mayor Thomas E. Kennedy. The action was announced by the mayor who said: "I am filling the vacancy in the office by appointment of John A. Kinney, who has been serving as first deputy chief."

First G. I.-Approved Loan

Freeman Photo

The honor of making the first G.I. government-approved loan in the city of Kingston for purchase of property by a former service man, goes to the Savings & Loan Association of Kingston.

On Tuesday afternoon President E. Frank Flanagan of the Savings & Loan Association completed the transaction whereby former Staff Sergeant Frederick C. Every and Mrs. Every of Lawrenceville street were granted a loan for the purchase of the former Rice property at 135 Pine Grove avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Every will take immediate possession of their new home.

Mr. Every for some time past has been employed with the signal department of the New York Central Railroad. He enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Corps in December, 1940, and the larger part of his nearly three years of service was spent at Baer Field, Fort Wayne, Ind., as a member of the 45th Air Base Squadron. He was serving there when discharged from the service in October, 1943.

Mrs. Every was the former Katherine Hornbeck of Lawrenceville street. She was married to Sergeant Every July 19, 1942.

Participating in the honor of this first Kingston transaction under the G.I. Bill of Rights Law was Frank S. Hyatt, well known Kingston real estate broker, who negotiated the sale of the property.

Among the advantages secured to discharged veterans under the G.I. Bill of Rights are the securing of loans for purchase of homes at an interest rate of four per cent, the extension of payments over a period of 20 years if desired and the important provision that the government guarantees one-half of the loan up to $2,000.

F.D.R. Returns From Conference

to say how long American troops might remain in Germany.

Sees Better World

Mr. Roosevelt viewed the conference at Yalta as one of a series of steps toward a better world. Almost with exultation, he said the American public and press were quite right in saying with virtual unanimity that the parley was a great achievement.

He said he believed the United Nations organization will develop into the best method ever devised for stopping war and eradicating some of its causes.

Mr. Roosevelt even visualized Germany and Japan as future members of the organization, at such time as they have proved themselves worth of places in it.

But he was insistent that they first must purge themselves, reverse militaristic tendencies they have shown for decades and demonstrate an ability to live peaceably among nations.

"Do you think," he was asked, "that Germany and Japan should ever in the foreseeable future be permitted to rearm?"

No, he replied, adding that he hoped armament would decrease all along the line, even among the Allied big five—America, Britain, Russia, China and France.

The Chief Executive predicated his belief that Germany and Japan can do an about face on the relatively short history of their militarism. Germany became militaristic after 1890, Japan after she first admitted outsiders in 1856, he said. Nations that can do that in such a comparatively short time, he went on, can go the other way—although it may take another 50 or 60 years.

Secret Understandings

Mr. Roosevelt is prepared to inform Congress that, unlike the Tehran Conference with Churchill and Stalin, the Yalta meeting did produce some secret understandings. He regards these as necessarily secret, although they probably will become apparent in time.

One decision omitted from the conference's final communique, disclosed when Turkey declared war on Germany and Japan, was that no power not in the war would be invited to the United Nations meeting at San Francisco. (Cable dispatches have mentioned March 1 as the deadline for those countries to get into the war.)

Presidential aides did not interpret this as meaning, however, that Russia necessarily would declare war on Japan any time soon. Soviet eligibility, they said, has been well established in the European conflict.

The war against Japan, Mr. Roosevelt told his news conference, was not even mentioned either at Yalta or at a brief meeting with Churchill later at Alexandria. The British Prime Minister already has stated, he recalled, that Britain will throw all her resources into the battle of the Pacific once Germany is broken.

(In stating that the war against Japan was not mentioned at his Alexandria conference with Churchill, Mr. Roosevelt publicly corrected a statement issued at the White House February 20 which described his departure from Yalta and trip to the Suez and Egypt. That statement said that the Alexandria meeting "permitted new and important discussions of at least one subject which they (Roosevelt and Churchill) could not take up before. They had to do with Japan and the war in the Pacific where Soviet Russia is a neutral power."

(This statement was called to the President's attention at his shipboard news conference and he reiterated that the Japanese war was not discussed at Alexandria.)

F.D.R. To Give Report On 'Big 3' Thursday

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky said today that President Roosevelt will make his report to Congress on the "Big Three" conference at 12:30 p. m. (E.W.T.) tomorrow.

Mr. Roosevelt will deliver the report in person to a joint assembly of the House and Senate in the House chamber. It will be broadcast.

Air Control Opinions

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—Arguments began today on the Federal Communications Commission's proposals for postwar allocation of radio frequencies. Approximately 50 individuals, companies and associations are expected to express orally their views of F. C. C. recommendations on how the crowded ether should be divided for use of the various radio services. In addition, about 25 individuals and organizations filed briefs outlining their opinions.

Roosevelt Prays On Voyage Home

Attends Services Aboard Ship, With Guns Trained

Aboard Presidential Cruiser in the Atlantic, Feb. 25 (AP) (Delayed)—President Roosevelt, seated on a windy deck among sailors and officers, attended church services today aboard the ship bringing him home from the Crimean conference.

On either side were manned anti-aircraft guns.

Mr. Roosevelt joined in singing several familiar hymns, reading Biblical passages, and bowed his head in a moment of silent prayer for Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, his military aide and secretary, who died aboard ship five days ago.

cept the job for the duration of the war even though authority over the lending agencies was removed.

The George measure restores permanent control of the $40,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation and subsidiaries to a federal loan administrator. It provides also for a yearly audit of the agencies, with reports to Congress.

The President is expected to announce soon his choice for administrator, a post Wallace said he hoped would not be filled by "a too little and too late" man. Speculation has centered around Stabilization Director Fred Vinson as a possible choice for the post.

Late Bulletin

London, Feb. 28 (AP)—More than 1,100 U. S. heavy bombers struck at least five major freight yards in a 100-mile circle behind the Rhine today in the third week of a non-stop offensive against German communications.

Rome, Feb. 28 (AP)—Ten persons, including three officers of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's staff, were killed February 19 while en route home on leave when their transport plane crashed upon taking off from an Italian field, it was disclosed today.

Johnson Predicts Manpower Bill Will Pass Shortly

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—Senator Johnson (D.-Colo.) contended today a majority of the Senate is swinging in behind a semi-voluntary manpower control bill. He predicted the measure can be passed this week.

The Coloradoan said some senators who favor a stiffer measure incorporating the work-or-jail provisions of legislation the House approved four weeks ago hope to win their point in the give-and-take of a two-chamber conference.

The Senate, entering its third day of debate, was tugged by two opposing influences. One is a growing desire to pass a bill—almost any manpower control measure—to meet the high command's repeated requests. The other is the openly expressed opinion of some that things are going so well on the battlefronts it might be folly to change the fundamental production rules at home.

The Senate bill would empower War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt to set employment ceilings and to forbid employers to hire new workers, whether men or women. Part of the present voluntary system of manpower recruiting would be retained, but employers who violated the ceiling or hiring orders would be subject to jail terms and fines. So would deferred farm workers who left their jobs without draft board permission.

The House bill provides five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine for men from 18 to 45 who defy Selective Service orders to take more vital jobs, or to remain in essential war work.

Freezing Rain, Snow Swollen Rivers Take Toll

By The Associated Press

Freezing rain, snow and swollen rivers caused some loss of life, much discomfort and disruption of traffic and power lines in numerous sections of the nation today.

Denison, Tex., was paralyzed and isolated after the worst ice storm in its experience. There was no electric power, little heat, and a dwindling water supply.

Heavy snow blanketed most of Oklahoma, making roads hazardous and some virtually impassable.

The snow was heavy in eastern Kansas also and fell in diminishing amounts northeastward to Illinois and Indiana.

Freezing rain which caused havoc yesterday in Tennessee and Kentucky was moving northeastward today, the Chicago Weather Bureau reported. Memphis, Tenn., had many schools closed today as the area recovered from a freezing rain storm which disrupted hundreds of telephone, telegraph and trolley lines.

Pittsburgh, Pa., was out of danger of serious floods after the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers crested at 27.8 feet early today, less than 3 feet above flood stage; but their waters poured into the already swollen Ohio river and Red Cross and relief workers along the Ohio remained alerted for possible flood work in the next

TIME TO WAKE UP!
By J. EDGAR HOOVER,
Chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.
"This country is in deadly peril. We can win this war, and still lose freedom for all America, for a creeping rot of moral disintegration is eating into our nation. I am not easily shocked nor easily alarmed. But today, like thousands of others, I am both shocked and alarmed. The arrests of 'teen-age' boys and girls all over the country are staggering. In the last year 17% more boys under 21 were arrested for assault than the year before, 26% more for disorderly conduct and 30% more for drunkenness. For girls the figures are even more startling: 39% more for drunkenness, 64% more for prostitution, 69% more for disorderly conduct and 124% more for vagrancy." The cause of a large per cent of prostitution, disorderly conduct and vagrancy is drunkenness. "I am not blaming the youngsters; I am trying . . . to put the blame where it belongs, on my own generation, which has failed in its responsibility to its children."
